

APPUNTAMENTO IN NERO

It is the self-confident history of a young brace, Angela and Gianni. He is an English diplomatic, she a beautiful woman on the 30 years who has renounced to her job of model in order to be beside her husband. Gianni has a lover, Eva, with whom he has planned a plan in order to eliminate the wife. But Eva and Angela are in agreement and decide to eliminate Gianni. The dramatic turn of events are not ended, David, brother of Angela strangle, in order to inherit of the money and to leave with Eva its lover for a long time, but in an unexpected moment, a tragic fatality will place end to its screw.

Originally issued under the title Appuntamento in nero, this 1990 post-noir thriller pays homage to classic Italian giallos. Andy J. Forest stars as British diplomat John, married to the gorgeous ex-model Angela (Mirella Banti) but saddled with a yen for mistress Eva (Mary Lindstrom). Desperate to be rid of Angela forever (and not particularly interested in a simple divorce), the couple scheme to rub Angela out, but the plans go terribly awry and John himself winds up marked for death.
